Printers Walk Out and Two Rochester Papers Close

Rochester, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Rochester Times-Union, a Gannett newspaper, suspended publication today when 93 printers failed to report for work in a dispute which the management termed a difference in contract interpretation and the union said was a "lockout."

The employees, members of Union 18, Rochester Typographical Union (AFL), joined 93 Democrat and Chronicle printers, members of the same union, who left that paper's composing room floor last night after discharge of a union member. The Democrat and Chronicle was not published this morning.

Erwin R. Davenport, general manager of the Rochester Gannett newspapers, when informed that union President Bertram W. Keiley had announced the employees would not return until a settlement had been reached, announced in a statement that the paper would not publish today and reiterated his previous statement that the printers had "differed with the management in interpreting rules."

Davenport and Keiley declared no meeting of union and management officials had been arranged. Davenport said "in the absence of Times-Union editions, the Rochester newspapers will make every effort to use all possible radio time for informing the reading public of world and city news developments."

Davenport asserted the union demanded "immediate reinstatement of a man discharged for refusing to obey a foreman's orders."

The discharged printer had refused to set an advertisement under instructions from the Typographical Union No. 18 (AFL) of which he is a member," Davenport said in a statement. "The union had differed with the management in interpreting rules regarding a form of 'make-work' involving the re-making of a certain advertisement."

Kelley asserted in a statement that the union "has had a controversy with the management of local Gannett newspapers because the attitude of the publisher has been that they were the only ones who could interpret the contract. That attitude was pushed to the point where the employees could no longer accept and keep their self respect."

"Tonight the union insisted its members work under their interpretation of the contract. For this, a man, an officer of the union, was discharged. The management was requested to reinstate this employee or it would be considered that all employees were fired, since they are under the same orders. This the management refused to do, and resulted in all employees, in effect, being discharged and constituting a lockout."

astic welcome from the inhabitants," an official report declared. The communiques said the invading forces now were in contact with the enemy both in Greece and Albania. Landing of Allied forces in Albania was announced some days ago.

Patriot groups were said to be co-operating closely with Allied forces in both countries.

Patras, the only area of invasion given in the first announcement, lies approximately 112 miles west of Athens near the entrance to the Gulf of Corinth. It is on the north shore of the Peloponnese.

The invasion returned British troops to the Greek mainland for the first time since 1841, when an ill-fated expeditionary force was forced to flee before the then all-powerful German army.

An official source said the Allied troops in Albania were harassing enemy forces, trying to maintain communications with the island of Corfu through the small port of Sarande.

The announcement gave no indication of the size of the British landing units or the extent of the contacts with the enemy. However, it is believed the units operating both in Greece and Albania are small compared with previous Allied landings on the European continent.

Earlier in the week Allied forces occupied the island of Kythera, off the southern tip of the Peloponnese without opposition.

ROOSEVELT ON AIR TONIGHT

Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will make his second of a four-term campaign tonight, a radio address beamed to Democratic Party workers and aimed primarily at getting out a full strength vote in November.

There is considerable capital speculation whether the president will use the occasion to carry the campaign fight to his opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, as he did in his opening address Sept. 13. Mr. Roosevelt will appear for about 30 minutes on a radio program arranged by the Democratic National Committee. The broadcast, starting at 10 p. m. (Eastern War Time), will be carried by the Columbia and Mutual networks.

Although the president gave no advance indication of his subject, most White House sources expect the address to continue itself largely to a go-to-the-polls appeal. However, Mr. Roosevelt has had no opportunity yet to make a public reply to the address Governor Dewey fired at his administration in the latter's recent campaign speech in Oklahoma City.

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan said tonight's broadcast would be directed to meetings of party workers in 125,000 voting areas throughout the country. Ten party workers are supposed to listen in each district and, after the broadcast, each will be given a list of registered voters and be charged with the responsibility of getting them to vote.

Greece Invaded—

The parachute troops and sea-borne units were given a joyful welcome by the Greek natives who in more than two years of stern German rule have suffered severely from food shortages.

The Allies already have promised essential foods and medical supplies to the country, which for six months in 1940-41 fought an attacking Italian army to a standstill and might have pushed it into the sea but for a German drive across the Balkans.

Leading support to the invaders, Mustangs from the U. S. 15th Air Force swarmed over the Kalamaki, Tatoi and Eleusis airbases in the Athens area, destroying several grounded enemy planes but meeting no air opposition.

Other warplanes blasted the thread bare enemy lines of communication through Yugoslavia, on which the Germans must pin their last hope of getting their Balkan garrisons back to the fatherland.

"The first arrival on the mainland of Greece of our forces, which included British land forces and units of a Royal Air Force regiment, met with a wildly enthusiastic

NEW YORK TO GET LOOK AT DEWEY

Albany, Oct. 5.—(AP)—New York City voters will get their first real look at Thomas E. Dewey as the Republican presidential candidate next week if the governor carries out tentative plans to make two non-political appearances there, one on Sunday and another on Thursday.

Dewey plans to leave Charleston, W. Va., immediately after his Saturday night speech, reaching New York City Sunday in time for the annual Polish-American parade, a march that usually finds upwards of 50,000 persons in line. He is expected to be in the reviewing stand.

Returning to Albany thereafter, the governor now plans to go back to register and to view the annual Columbus Day parade involving a large turnout of New York City's Italian population. This parade up Fifth Avenue is sponsored for the first time this year by the city administration, headed by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia.

Although Paul Lockwood, the governor's secretary, said that definite arrangements had not been made, Dewey may address the Columbus Day march, as he has in the past. It was explained that any such address would be non-political in nature.

"Dewey has made only three talks in New York State since he became the GOP standard bearer and two of these have been of an informal nature. The third, made from the executive mansion here Tuesday night, was a nation-wide radio address. Previously, he had spoken in Albany on his return from the Chicago nominating convention and later at Pawling on his first week-end spent thereafter at his nearby dairy farm.

Newspapermen saw the propellerless airplane during a routine test flight. The plane-capable of high speeds and high altitudes, has twin engines with two air intake vents one on each side of the fuselage and below the wing.
