Jordan Community Council seeking help for festival

By KATE HUDSON
Jordan-Elbridge correspondent

The Jordan Community Council needs community help with its 27th Fall Festival and Auction, Dan Doran, festival director, said at council meeting Tuesday night.

Twenty-seven years of know-how cannot be given up, Doran said, but those who have worked on the festival in the past need to be relieved. Newcomers must take an interest and step in to learn, he added. He noted that several newcomers have already taken over projects, and asked that anyone interested in becoming a part of the festival volunteer to him or to Vernon Campbell, Francis Foote or any council member.

Several committee chairmen reported they were ready for the festival. The auction does need all kinds of donations. Interested people who have items to give may contact Jack MacNabb or Charles Chamberlain for pick-up or may take the items to the grounds during the festival week. The council expects to have tents up in advance as it has in past festivals.

Festival sponsors also urge any carpenter or anyone handy with hammer and saw to come to the festival grounds early in the festival week to help get the stands in readiness. Francis Foote will be there to show volunteers how to put the stands together and will oversee the operation.

The public is asked not only for auction material, but also for baked goods, canned goods, produce, jewelry of all kinds including broken jewelry, items for hourly prizes, pies for the restaurant, financial donations and especially time to help at the festival. Clothing should be kept for donation to the October library rummage sale.

Cato woman elected president of Northern Cayuga Health group

By SHIRLEY DENNISON
Cato correspondent

Mrs. Peg Sweetman of Cato was elected president of the Northern Cayuga Health Center Auxiliary at the group's organizational meeting Tuesday evening, Aug. 28 in the center's quarters in the Cato-Meridian Middle School.

Other officers are Mrs. Diane Begley, vice-president; Mrs. Linda Root, secretary; and Mrs. Kathy Hoyt, treasurer. These four, together with William Martin, NCHC health services coordinator, Drs. Thomas Brady and Donald Batts, staff physicians; and one representative from each township served by the center, will form a steering committee to govern the auxiliary. Township representatives are Mrs. Marilyn Warner, Cato; Mrs. Ruth Howell, Ira; Mrs. June Welling, Victory; Mrs. Margaret Young, Conquest; and Mrs. Peggy Teza, Sterling.

In addition to electing officers, the auxiliary drafted and adopted a set of bylaws and selected chairmen for several committees in a Center Volunteer Corps. Mrs. Edie Cole and Mrs. Joann Conley are co-chairmen of a Transportation Committee which will aid those needing rides to the NCHC for appointments or treatment. Mrs. Mary Batts will head a Decoration Committee to provide appropriate decor for the waiting room and pediatric examining rooms at the center, and Mrs. Joyce Murphy chairman of a Favor Committee to make available lollipops or treats for young patients.

The auxiliary also set up three committees for the volunteer corps which do not yet have chairmen. They are the Hospitality Committee, which will provide refreshments for official NCHC meetings; a Hospital Visitation Committee for all area residents, whether specifically NCHC patients or not; and a Telephone Committee whose job will be to ease loneliness for elderly people and shut-ins in the locality.

It was announced that an open house and reception to honor the two new doctors will be held at the Health Center from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 23. Mrs. Diane Begley, chairman of the affair, said that further details will be announced as plans are completed.

Persons interested in joining the newly-formed auxiliary may sign up at the Sept. 23rd open house, officials said.

Those traffic tickets

By ERMA BOMBECK

My husband says I overreact to a traffic ticket. That's not true. I know a lot of women who cry for three days. And sell the car. And try to retain F. Lee Bailey to defend them.

The trouble with men is they do not have the proper respect for a traffic ticket. To them, it is a sign of manhood, like drinking a quart of beer without belching. To women, it's an emotional trauma, comparable to wagon.

My second misdemeanor was for speeding while passing a police cruiser. As I sped by, I purposely waved to the officer and pointed to my watch, indicating that I had a dental appointment for my son and would be charged for it if we were late.

I thought it odd when he escorted me from behind with his siren and red light for three understanding.

In traffic court, I sobbed so uncontrollably they had to give me two aspirin and a cup of hot tea to sedate me.

Last week, I cut in front of a police car to make an illegal left turn. As the officer put on his riot helmet and a crowd began to form around my car, I knew he would not buy the fact that if I was stupid enough to cut in front of a police cruiser for an illegal turn, I surely wouldn't be smart enough to figure out the one-way streets in the downtown area.

What could I do? I got out of the car, threw myself against the hood with my feet apart, asked to hear my rights, and requested a phone call to my husband.

Now, my husband is laughing. But just wait until he finds out who gets custody of the kids!

Hester wearing a large "A" on her chest that stands for Auto Violation.

My husband considers my traffic tickets the greatest source of humor since Milton Berle wore a dress. As a high school graduate, I consider them a humiliation.

I have received three citations in 23 years of driving. The first one was in 1950, when I made a U-turn in front of a paddy wagon. I know what you're thinking. You're thinking I didn't see the paddy wagon. Wrong. In my mind, I humanized the police officer, rationalizing he was a man who took out the garbage, stood in line at the circus, and knew the agonies of circling the block 18 times only to see a parking spot on the other side.

If I live to be a hundred, I will never forget the laughter that came out of that paddy
