Ten Commandments for husbands

DEAR READERS: Last weekend, in all humility and with no intended irreverence to Moses, I published my "TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES." Here is the companion piece, "TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR HUSBANDS."

1. Thou shalt put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for she is thy life-long companion.
2. Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco, or drink, that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.
3. Permit neither thy business, nor thy hobby to make of thee a stranger to thy children, for the most precious gift a man giveth his family is his time.
4. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.
5. Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.
6. Forget not to say, "I love you." For even tho' they love to be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.
7. Remember that the approval of thy wife is worth more than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers. Cleave unto her, and forsake all others.

8. Keep thy home in good repair, for of it cometh the joys of thy old age.
9. Forgive with grace. For who among us does not need to be forgiven?
10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower. Never mind my age. I live alone in a five-room house. All I want is company and someone to help me keep this place clean. No hanky panky. She would have a private room and her own TV. If she can't cook, I can. If she is under 55 years of age, tell her to forget it.

PAPPY IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PAPPY: What do you want a housekeeper, or company? Housekeepers can be found thru the classified ads, and company is found thru mutual acquaintances. If it's a combination, I suggest you socialize, and let it be known you're in the market. You'd have better luck if you found a friend and make her a housekeeper than the other way around.

DEAR ABBY: I recently graduated from high school and thought this problem would be over, but I was wrong.

You see, my mother was never married, and she has never discussed the reason with me. In school when we had to fill out forms, where it had, "Father's name" I always made one up because I was too ashamed to leave it blank.

Now I have the same problem again when I apply for a job.

There are other places where father's name is asked, too; hospital admissions, and insurance forms, to name a few.

What do I say when someone hands a form back to me and says, "You forgot to fill in your father's name?" Thank you, kindly.

FATHERLESS GIRL

DEAR GIRL: It's nobody's business. I checked with the Census Bureau. They referred me to the State Human Rights Office, whose spokesman said, "Just tell her to leave the space blank."

If someone hands it back to you, saying, "You forgot," — look them right in the eye, and say, "No, I didn't and hand it right back.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Miss Olson engaged to marry Kenton Patchen

Mr. and Mrs. Hilding M. Olson, Mohnton, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Christine, to Kenton S. Patchen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Patchen, Locke.

Mullally, Ireland, and Margaret C. Ide, 23 Wood St.; John M. Taylor, California, and Mary Zubrowski, Sennett; William J. Stoddard Jr., 15 Ross St., and Marlene A. Quill, Cayuga.

Two legislators to visit Oregon on container law

Two county legislators have been authorized to take a trip to Oregon to study the impact, environmental as well as financial, of the new Oregon container law.

Arbon Hatfield will go as chairman of the environmental management committee of the Legislature on their return.

Cayuga County is considering the implementation of a county-wide container law, which would require a nickel deposit on all beer and soft drink bottles and cans sold in the county. Authorization for the trip was given by Robert Contiguglia, chairman.

Knox to address service workers

Dr. James Knox, superintendent of Auburn public schools, will speak at a meeting of Community Service Workers of Cayuga County Thursday noon, Sept. 13. The group will meet in St. Peter's Parish Hall for a luncheon served by Meals on Wheels.

Dr. Knox's subject will be setting educational goals and a new philosophy for the Auburn school system.

The theme of meetings during the coming year will focus on the direction of services in the community. Each meeting will give time for five-minute mini-talks to describe programs and services of the agencies.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE ARGALI

THE LARGEST OF ALL THE WILD SHEEP THE ARGALI, IS FOUND IN SIBERIA

QUESTION: What is an Argali?

ANSWER: A number of breeds of wild sheep live in the mountainous regions of Asia. The Argali, the largest of the wild sheep, is found in the Altai mountains of Siberia and Mongolia. The male Argali stands 4 feet high at the shoulders and has huge horns which curve spirally outward, in some cases forming an almost complete circle about 20 inches around. It is light brown in color, has a white face, and in winter, grows a ruff of white hair around its neck.

Wild sheep live together in bands and prefer mountainous terrain. They are daring and courageous animals. They are hardy, living under rugged conditions and survive the severe winter weather of the northern areas. They rival mountain goats in their climbing ability. Domestic sheep, prized for meat and wool, are thought to have originated in the mountains of Central Asia.

9-8 (Tina Grier of North Chicago, Ill., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

A TRUE, WHAT I DON'T KNOW WON'T HURT ME. BUT WHAT I FIND OUT MAY KILL YOU!

Learn while shopping

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

One-stop shopping is making great inroads into the antique world and, newest of such establishments, the New York Antiques Center has more than eighty dealers under one roof. Business has been so brisk that a restaurant is being built within it.

Not all of the objects are antique. But there are people for those things, too. For example, an 8-foot beaded snake made by a Turkish prisoner of war in 1917.

In addition to the convenience, there is an opportunity to be educated in one's favorite collectible. Dealers seem to have time to chat as collectors pursue questions concerning their favorite subject at the Third Avenue establishment.

Would you recognize an 18th century belly dancer's stomachier if you saw one? Made into a necklace? It is a different kind of antique, but in one booth there it was alongside a 600-year-old Spanish religious wooden doll, a $6,000 Abussion tapestry, and rock crystal sconces.

But, then, observed Pamela Curran, who shares the booth with Ted Peckham of escort service fame, "people like to see many different kinds of things in one place, sort of like a bazaar. And the merchandise is priced for the public, not just for decorators, so they get a good deal."

Adding to one's existing silver may be a thought when one encounters the booth of Samuel Strauss who was explaining the difference between sterling and coin silver to one customer.

"One nice thing about secondhand silver is you find many things that are no longer made," he explained, holding up a Louis XV asparagus server and some stuffing spoons.

Many patterns are in the old heavier weight. For example, one punch ladle at $5 is cheaper, he said, than the lighter weight one made now. Ditto grapefruit spoons, which he had at $6 apiece.

A dealer in "flow blue," the semi-porcelain which was originally given away in oatmeal boxes, explained it was made in New Jersey and West Virginia although the most sought-after flow blue is English. Of the 225 pieces he had located there were four complete sets of dessert plates and cups. Assembling them had been an adventure for him, he remarked. Flow blue, a dark blue design that blurs into a white background, originated as the result of an accident at a pottery plant, said the dealer, Garnett Brown. Although most people attribute the mistake to Englishmen, his own research, he insisted, showed that it was made by a pair of Dutchmen who migrated to England.

Cayuga meeting

Cayuga Lake Fish and Game Club will meet Sunday, Sept. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the Donald R. Ward American Legion Post in Cayuga.

Miss Juliet M. Woodhouse weds William G. Maggos

Juliet Marie Woodhouse and William Gerald Maggos were married at noon today in St. Francis of Assisi Church. The Rev. John Nahan officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Woodhouse of Maple Street, Genoa and the late Mr. Woodhouse. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Maggos of Alton, Ill.

Escorted by her brother, Richard Woodhouse, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over taffeta with a bodice decorated with Chantilly lace. Lace and seed pearls decorated the A-line skirt and the detachable chapel train was accented with a French rose and appliques of lace. A matching Camelot headpiece held her elbow-length illusion veil featuring seed pearls and lace edging.

Miss Valerie Stack was maid of honor and Janice Driscoll was bridesmaid.

Mark Maggos was best man for his brother. Ushers were George Krueger and Bruce Driscoll.

The reception was given at the Auburn Inn and a rehearsal dinner at Wood Acres Restaurant.

Bridal attendants gave a shower.

The bride graduated from Southern Cayuga Central School and attended Powlson Institute, Syracuse.

The bridegroom graduated from Alton Senior High School and is serving in the U.S. Navy.

The couple will live in Somerset, Bermuda, where the bridegroom is stationed.

At Wil's End Cycle Steve or Mr. Ernest?

By ERMA BOMBECK

Every four weeks my son has his hair cut. For the first two weeks following the haircut, he is given to fits of hysteria. He is morose and refuses to speak to me in public.

For the two weeks preceding the haircut, I am given to hysteria. I am morose and refuse to speak to him in public.

I consider myself to be a broadminded mother regarding the length and style of hair. To me, hair can be as long, as shabby, as dirty as it wants to be... as long as it is on someone else's son.

At the moment, my son and I are haggling between two barbers. He is holding out for a barber named Cycle Steve. Cycle Steve wears a fringed vest over his white tunic, has sideburns that meet on his chest to form a hairy peace sign and refers to me as "Hey Man." His idea of a haircut is to wave a pair of scissors over my son's hair and ask him if he has a chick yet.

My vote goes to Mr. Ernest, a member of the Lion's club who shaves the neck, reveals the ears and subscribes to Boy's Life.

The other day I could stand it no longer. I said, "It's haircut time. Grab a brown paper bag to wear on your head coming home and we are off to Mr. Ernest."

Defensively, he jerked his head up, "That's not funny," he said. "Besides, how do you know I need a haircut?"

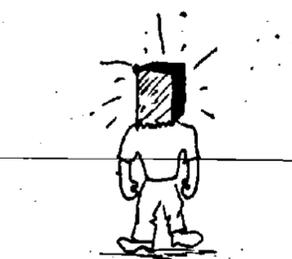

"I'm a mother. I'm intuitive," I said. "Besides, you are eating a crocheted glass coaster which you mistook for a cookie."

"I will give you four reasons why I will not go to Mr. Ernest for a haircut," he said spreading his fingers. "One, he buzzes me like a bozo. Two, he refuses to cut my hair the way I want. Three, he's always talking about Gen. Mark Clark (I thought he was a candy bar) and fourth, the other day a guy tried to tip him and he said, 'Keep it for bubble gum and baseball cards.'"

"What's wrong with that?" I asked.

"The guy was 35 years old."

"Okay, I'll give you four reasons why you will not go to Cycle Steve for a haircut. First, barbers charge $3 for a haircut. Second, you do not have $3. Third, I do have $3 and fourth, Cycle Steve is not my favorite charity."

I know that's a foul way to win an argument. But if I lose, what have I got? A Pete Maravich who is too short to play basketball and too militant to make commercials.

C-A wedding policy

The Citizen-Advertiser will not use wedding pictures if received later than two weeks after the ceremony. A condensed article will be used up to four weeks after the ceremony.
